PERSONAL STATEMENT

I believe my strongest trait is the urge to understand the root of everything that I am learning - especially when it's come to logical related areas like Math, application development, AI ... Therefore I do not accept the superficial knowledge, but always try to dig deep into the root of these problems. Thanks to that I could be able to come up with a clever and thorough solution.

In addition, I am confident in my self-study ability, and I can read documents or papers in English.

Personally, I am quite a flexible person, so I could fit in well with new environment and people, and I am willing to take on challenges at work to improve myself faster - knowing that will be helpful for my work and for the company.
